Let's cruise

2021-2022 cruise holiday guide

A message from Gina

South Australians love exploring their home state, and we also look forward to travelling further afield.

It's no secret that in the last year, challenges have impacted the travel industry. However, our team of SA locals are standing strong and are here to make sure that every trip you take is unforgettable. If you're interested in a holiday at sea, cruise companies are also looking out for your wellbeing – by introducing a range of extra health and safety measures including pre-departure testing, enhanced air filtration technology, immediate isolation capabilities, physical distancing and much more.

Whether it's a trip through Australian waters or a voyage to exotic international locations, there's no more enjoyable way to travel. With fine dining and top-class entertainment just a short stroll from your stateroom door, all you need to think about is the thrill of experiencing new destinations.

In this brochure we feature a variety of cruise holiday options, with something for everyone. There are ex-Adelaide cruises, family holiday getaways, and once-in-a-lifetime journeys you'll remember fondly for years to come. For travellers with a particular interest in mind, we look at themed cruises and special events at sea, as well as exciting new ships and experiences.

With so many options to choose from – plus RAA member exclusive benefits – we've curated our top-pick cruise itineraries to help you start planning your next great escape.

Happy sailing,

All about cruising

Why cruise?

Over the past decade there have been major developments in the cruising industry, and these days there's something for everyone. Cruise companies are not only finding new and exciting locations to explore, they're also catering for a broader range of travellers' interests. It might be a quick trip out of Adelaide, a tour of historic sites along Europe's great rivers, a sun-drenched frolic in the South Pacific, or a wild adventure in pristine environments like Alaska's Inside Passage.

As well as offering an ever-expanding list of destinations and experiences, there's also a mind-boggling variety of onboard facilities to keep passengers entertained between ports. Shopping arcades, poolside cinemas, live shows and extensive dining options can be found on many medium to large ships, but some of the newer features are truly state-of-the-art.

Celebrity Edge is home to the Magic Carpet; a tennis-court-sized platform that moves up and down between decks on the outside of the ship. At deck 16 it's an alfresco venue for elegant dinners; at pool level it transforms into a lively outdoor bar, and down on the fifth floor it becomes an extension of the seafood restaurant.

Entertainment and hi-tech join forces at Royal Caribbean's bionic bar, where robot bartenders whip up cocktails and mocktails in a mechanical flurry. Get set to digitally place your order when Quantum of the Seas travels to our shores in 2021. Kids certainly haven't been forgotten when it comes to onboard thrills. Water parks, kids' clubs and sports courts are commonplace these days, but features like Carnival Mardi Gras' Bolt – the first roller coaster at sea – are taking family fun to new limits.

When to cruise

Cruise lines follow the sun, choosing the best weather for any given destination. As the seasons change, ships are relocated between the northern and southern hemispheres, heading south around October and then back north around April. This is the best time to latch on to unique itineraries, like the repositioning trip between Hawaii and Australia, which includes Tahiti, a destination just out of reach of regular return cruises from Oz.

P&O and Carnival have a range of itineraries throughout the year. So, if you're keen to escape SA's chilly winters, take a trip up the Queensland coast from Sydney or Brisbane, or sail across to the tropical waters of the South Pacific.

Cruises out of Adelaide usually depart during our warmer months, between December and March.

When to book

You've checked out the ship's cabin plan and picked the ideal stateroom for your dream holiday. Chances are, so has everybody else. Book as soon as you can to ensure you get the room type and location of your choice. This particularly applies during peak season.

Other considerations include ships with limits on the number of kids per age bracket – these fill up quickly on school holiday cruises.

If you don't care when and where you cruise, and you're not too fussed about your cabin's location, then you're likely to find some great last-minute deals.

Why book with RAA?

We've been helping South Australians with their travel plans for more than 70 years, and over that time we've learnt a lot about cruising. Because we work closely with cruise companies, we're able to offer our members exclusive offers and discounts.

As a one-stop travel shop, we can help organise passports, visas, flights, cabin selection, online check-in, tours, pre and post cruise accommodation, insurance, and much more. Unlike other travel consultants, our local team of experts don't work for commission, so you can count on us to have your best interests at heart. With us by your side, you can travel the world around you – safe in the knowledge that you'll always be able to reach us in-store, by phone, or email.

From your first enquiry to the day you return home with a lifetime of cherished memories, you can rest assured you'll be in good hands.

All aboard

Each ship has its own unique style and onboard features. Our travel experts can explain what each cruise line offers, and help you choose the itinerary and cabin that's right for you.

Princess have been helping travellers explore the world for more than 50 years. From summer 2021 all ships in Australia will be MedallionClass™ offering the ultimate in effortless, personalised cruising that enables everything from touch-free boarding to locating your loved ones anywhere on the ship.

Cruising from Adelaide

Ease

No hanging around the airport – just make your way down to Outer Harbour and get ready to start your holiday.

Relax

Unpack for the first and only time, then grab a cold drink and watch the workday world slowly disappear from view.

Connect

Your holiday starts in Adelaide, so you'll have more time to enjoy with family or friends on your holiday.

Choice

With a range of room types available, plus all sorts of dining and entertainment options, there's certainly no shortage of choice.

Skip the stress with ocean voyages that depart close to home

You can see the world right from your doorstep with some of Australia's leading cruise lines, including Princess Cruises®, P&O and Cunard now sailing to and from Adelaide.

Our cruise expert Candice explains the convenience of cruising from Adelaide

"Cruising from home is just so handy," says our cruise expert Candice.

"There's no need to get up early for an interstate flight – you can enjoy a leisurely morning, then head down to Outer Harbour and start your holiday. How easy is that? Check-in's a breeze, so you're on board before you know it. And because you only have to unpack once, you feel completely relaxed in no time. Plus, your family and friends can come along and see you off, which really adds to the excitement of the trip.

Then as soon as you pull away, you're meeting new people and creating memories that last a lifetime.

Top tips: "I like to check in early; there's no point wasting precious holiday time. And, of course, if you're an RAA member you can get exclusive member discounts and extras if you book with the travel experts at RAA."

South Pacific from our doorstep

A tropical paradise

Tropical

There's nothing quite like island hopping around the South Pacific, cruising from one tropical paradise to the next. Enjoy the glistening white sands and colourful coral reefs of Mystery Island and Isle of Pines, the French provincial atmosphere of Noumea, and the rich cultural heritage of Vanuatu. When you arrive in sunny Fiji, you can always expect a cheerful 'Bula!'.

Culture

With a 3,000-year history of migration from around the Pacific, plus French and British influences – Vanuatu has a remarkably diverse culture. New Caledonia's mix of languages, accents and culinary delights reveals Melanesian, Asian and European heritage. Immerse yourself in Melanesian Kanak culture at Noumea's Tjibaou Cultural Centre.

Eat and drink

Throughout the South Pacific you'll find a wide range of cuisines, including Melanesian, French and Asian. Tempt your tastebuds with New Caledonia's bougna, a local dish made from chicken or seafood, blended with coconut milk, plantain and root vegetables, then wrapped in banana leaves and baked. And what better part of the world to satisfy your craving for tropical fruit?

Explore

Ease into the crystal-clear waters of Mystery Island and discover a kaleidoscope of colourful marine life. Enjoy the cafés and gentle sea breezes at Noumea's beautiful Lemon Bay, a great spot for a family day out. In Vanuatu, take a refreshing dip in the natural rock pools beneath the Mele Cascades, set among lush rainforest.

Cruising for the whole family

Ease

Food choices to suit everyone and entertainment and activities for all ages – it doesn't get any easier than that.

Relax

With so many things to keep the kids busy, that strange sensation you're feeling is time for yourself.

Connect

Enjoying quality experiences together as a family makes memories that last a lifetime.

Choice

Interconnecting rooms, family rooms, inside or outside rooms – we'll help you choose the cabin that's right for you.

The top 5 reasons a cruise is the perfect choice for a family holiday

1 Kids can be fussy eaters – who knew?

From bistros to fine dining, from chicken nuggets to less nuggety delights, the variety of food choices aboard cruise ships is impressive. Pizzas, pan-seared steaks and exotic dishes from around the world, all happily coexist aboard these floating gastronomical wonderlands. There's sure to be something to suit everyone's taste.

2 A room to suit

Cabins are designed to comfortably sleep two people, but they can fit up to four. Some of the newer ships have staterooms with capacity for up to seven people. If you prefer a door between you and the kids, check out the availability of interconnecting staterooms. For the budget conscious, inside cabins are generally cheaper than outside cabins.

3 Activities for all ages

Cruise companies know that you and your family may not share all the same interests. That's why they have kids' clubs, separated into age groupings with activities organised accordingly. So while you're heading to the cocktail lounge for sea views and an afternoon daiquiri, the young-uns are being entertained among their own kind.

4 Getting there is at least half the fun

“Are we there yet, are we there yet?” Although a common refrain on a road trip, it's unlikely to be heard on the high seas. Modern cruise ships are simply jam-packed with fun things to do. As well as swimming pools, sporting activities, movies and water parks, you'll also find ships with go-kart tracks, ice skating rinks, roller coasters, and a whole lot more.

5 It's not all about the kids

Once you've settled into your stateroom and unpacked, your holiday truly begins. There's no more driving, hanging around airports or trying to satisfy the herd at mealtime. Cruising is all about relaxation and sightseeing, while somebody else does all the other stuff. Meanwhile, down at the kids' club, it's not your carpet being crayoned on.

What you'll love There's so much to do on board Quantum, sea days will be as much fun shore days. And with stops at vibrant Noumea and beautiful Mystery Island, those shore days will be a lot of fun.

Our top pick

Quantum of the Seas

Sailing from Australia in 2021-2022

Explore

For 360° views, clear through to the horizon, head to the skies on the North Star® elevating viewing capsule. The aptly named Two70° theatre is a comfortable lounge area offering 270° views from the rear of the ship. In the evening, the windows become a 30-metre wide, floor-to-ceiling screen displaying dazzling, ultra-HD imagery as a backdrop to exciting live shows.

Fun

Not many ships have as much fun stuff to do as Quantum. Let's start with bumper cars, rock-climbing, roller-skating and the skydiving simulator. Still not tired? Then have a go at the circus school's trapeze lessons, take on some video games or foosball, then hit the surf on the FlowRider®. And, of course, there's a complimentary kids' club to suit every age.

Eat and drink

As well as the main dining room, there's Café Promenade, Sorrento's Pizza, plus specialty restaurants like Chops Grille steakhouse™ and Jamie's Italian by Jamie Oliver™. Tired of humans mixing your martinis? Quantum's bionic bar employs robot bartenders to do the job. There are plenty of other spots to enjoy a drink, including Vintages wine bar and the poolside Sky Bar up on deck 14.

Discover

Sail away to the chilled-out beach life and friendly faces of the South Pacific on a cruise to tropical Vanuatu and Fiji – or even further afield on a trip from Australia to Hawaii. Or, if the fiords and snow-capped peaks of the 'land of the long white cloud' beckon, pack your bags for gorgeous New Zealand. Closer to home, explore the seascapes of the QLD and NSW coasts.

South Pacific

9 nights on Royal Caribbean's Quantum of the Seas

Interior from $813 pp quadshare*

Balcony from $1,002 pp quadshare*

Date departs 15 November 2021, 1 March 2022, 10 March 2022*, 30 March 2022

Starts at Brisbane Ends at Brisbane

Ports of call Noumea, Mystery Island, Port Vila

What's onboard? The North Star® observation pod, cocktails made by robots, dodgem cars, and a room where two-storey-high windows transform from sweeping ocean views to a multimedia production with robotic dancing screens, aerialists and so much more.

What you'll love There's something cool around every corner onboard, while the destinations are a showcase of tropical South Pacific delights.

Festivals and events at sea

Ease

The festivities are a short stroll from your stateroom. Transfers and tickets for special events, like the tennis, are included.

Relax

Check-in and unpack, then just sit back and relax. No cooking, no washing up, no making your bed, no worries.

Connect

Join family or friends for New Year's Eve, a rock n' roll extravaganza, or even a trip to the Melbourne Cup.

Choice

From sporting events, food tours and music festivals, to Christmas and New Year's Eve sailings, there's a cruise to suit everyone.

What better way to get to your favourite event than aboard a cruise ship?

A P&O Main Events cruise to the Melbourne Cup or Australian Tennis Open includes return transfers from the ship to the venue, general admission tickets and a few other goodies. And you can always upgrade your cruise package for a more exclusive experience. With your accommodation and meals taken care of, your only responsibility is to embrace the atmosphere of a world class event and thoroughly enjoy yourself.

Or maybe you'd like to spend Christmas Day or New Year's Eve somewhere truly unique? Cruise companies sure know how to throw a party, and if you happen to be at sea during the festive season, you're in for a real treat. It's a time of joyful celebrations with fellow cruisers, elaborate decorations and plenty of festive cheer. And there's an excellent chance the jolly chap in red will make a shipboard appearance.

Themed cruises have become increasingly popular over the years. Choose your Cruise have had toes tapping for more than a decade. Their Cruisin' Country tour hits all the right notes with a star-studded line-up of country music greats. For rock and rollers, there's the Rock the Boat cruise, which features some of Aussie music's greatest artists and tunes.

There are also cruises for food lovers, beer and wine enthusiasts and fans of knee-slapping comedy. So, whatever your passion, there's bound to be a cruise to suit you.

Our cruise expert Vikki is a big fan of event cruises

"I've cruised through the South Pacific, around southern Europe, plus a couple of short trips from Adelaide and Sydney," says Vikki. "One of my favourites was a three-day comedy cruise with P&O. We got to see some great acts, and we didn't have to worry about driving, parking or getting home safely after the shows. It's such a treat to be able to have a meal, watch a show, enjoy a few drinks, and then head back to the cabin for a good night's sleep. And it was just before the Fringe Festival, which gave us a chance to sample a few acts, so we knew whose show we wanted to book when they came to Adelaide."

Top tips: "Event cruises are popular so book early. And research is important – there are so many choices, like food and wine tours, sporting events, music tours, as well as Christmas and New Year's Eve celebrations."

Hear from our cruise expert Nikki on how to make the most out of your South Pacific or New Zealand cruise

“I simply love cruising,” says Nikki. “I’ve been to the South Pacific, both islands of New Zealand, and along the Seine River from Paris to Normandy. For me, cruising is all about choice. There are so many dining options, and a huge range of activities and entertainment. You can even swap friends if you need a break – just kidding. And convenience is big factor too. Everything’s just a short stroll from your stateroom. Plus, you get to visit some amazing places. I’ll never forget Hobbiton in New Zealand. It’s incredible how they’ve created such a detailed fantasy world. And drifting through Milford Sound on the South Island was simply breathtaking. In eight days, we got to see so much of the country. It’s certainly a lot more relaxing than driving.”

Top tips: “Talk to a travel expert. They’ll find a cruise that suits both your interests and your budget. And don’t pack too much – how many shoes do you really need?”

Papua New Guinea

Our top pick

Papua New Guinea

A remote paradise

Unique

Remote and rugged, Papua New Guinea is one of the world's last frontiers. A place of dense jungles and rugged mountain ranges, the country is also blessed with pristine beaches and some of the best snorkelling and diving on the planet. Be prepared for a warm welcome, colourful festivals, a rich cultural experience and a truly unique travel adventure.

Culture

Papua New Guinea is home to hundreds of cultural groups and more than 800 languages. They gather together for lively festivals, like the colourful 'sing sing', where their diversity is expressed through ornate ceremonial dress, music and dance. Kiriwina Island offers a taste of traditional island life, while Rabaul is a must for those interested in WWII history.

Explore

To get the feel of each destination, head to the local market. Here, among the fruit and veg and arts and crafts, you'll experience everyday life at its most authentic. Papua New Guinea's many islands are world-renowned for their crystal-clear waters and extensive coral reefs – a bonanza for snorkellers and scuba divers. The Conflict Islands have been described as paradise on earth.

Eat and drink

Local dishes are made from sago and root vegetables, like yams, sweet potato and taro, so being a vegetarian in Papua New Guinea is a breeze. Pork is also popular, and is often cooked mumu-style – covered in banana leaves and baked in a hot pit. Western and Asian foods are available in most main centres, and there's no problem getting drinks like coffee and beer.

Australia to Hawaii

Via the turquoise waters of tropical Tahiti

Aloha! Bonjour!

Hawaii and Tahiti are two of the world's most iconic holiday destinations. Hawaii is all about lush rainforests, green mountains, great surf and a vibrant beach life. Tahiti is a picture-perfect paradise, boasting crystal clear waters, colourful coral reefs, and everything you'd expect from tropical French Polynesia. The people of both nations pride themselves on welcoming visitors.

Culture

The Tahitian's rich culture is expressed in their artwork, music and dance, as well as their philosophy of 'aita pe'ape'a,' meaning 'no worries.' The word 'tattoo' has Polynesian origins. Music, song and dance is also important in Hawaiian culture – a luau is a great way to experience it first-hand. And the commonly heard greeting 'Aloha' means much more than just g'day.

Explore

Tour from Papeete to the black-sand beach at Plage du Taharuu, or trek through the rainforest to the 135m-high Fautaua Waterfall. On Moorea island, snorkel in the lagoon at Opunohu Bay. Bora Bora is simply paradise, infused with the scent of white gardenia. In Hawaii, test your surf skills at Waikiki and check out the view from atop Diamond Head volcano.

Eat and drink

Tahitian dishes are a mix of Polynesian, Asian and French influences. Poisson cru, the country's signature dish, is a tangy ceviche blending tuna with lime juice, salad vegetables and coconut milk. Traditional Hawaiian fare includes laulau – seasoned pork and fish wrapped in taro leaves and steamed. Cool down with a 'shave ice', drizzled with natural syrups.

Tahiti and Hawaii

15 nights on Royal Caribbean's Quantum of the Seas

Interior from $2,300 pp twinshare*

Balcony from $2,999 pp twinshare*

Date departs 11 April 2022

Starts at Brisbane Ends at Honolulu

Ports of call Papeete, Moorea, Bora Bora

What's onboard? The North Star® observation pod, cocktails made by robots, dodgem cars, and a room where two-storey-high windows transform from sweeping ocean views to a multimedia production with robotic dancing screens, aerialists and so much more.

What you'll love Experience Tahiti's stunning beaches and sparkling, clear waters, before saying au revoir to French Polynesia and aloha to tropical Hawaii. Ask us about extending your stay in Hawaii and fly/cruise packages.
